Sandra Ortiz has twenty years of experience in Human Development, Training Programs, Coaching and Psychotherapy. She was an Executive Director of a nonprofit organization. In addition to her Executive Director work she conducted field work visiting the Native Community in Oaxaca Mexico and assessing what would be necessary to serve the community through the Foundation.

Sandra served as a Project Manager at Anahuac University Network where she lectures, conducts workshops and leads various leadership and social responsibility programs.

Sandra was the Instructor of Formation and Human Development, which focused on the integral formation of the Education Community at Semper Altus School Network in Italy, Chile, USA and Mexico. She delivered several lectures at conferences as the Director of Leadership Youth Programs. Sandra served as Director of summer camps and Academic Professor during the Coworkers training program. Sandra enjoys volunteering and has held volunteer roles for over 25 years.

Having studied at the University of Anahuac Network, Sandra has a degree in Education and Human Development, and a master's degree in Clinical Psychology. She also holds a certification from the World Coaching Corporation.
